Give Dad an AN AQUATIC WORKOUT THAT'S NO SWEAT!

CERTIFIED trainer Jennifer Conroyd developed a serious, no impact aquatic high-tech workout after she was injured and needed to rehab to run a marathon. Her Fluid Running workout is an on-demand deep water running workout system that's like a Peloton for the pool. It uses a special flotation belt and Bluetooth, waterproof headphones that connect with the app that allows users to hear music-backed workouts led by Jennifer. According to the maker, movement in cool, circulating water helps improve flexibility while cushioning the joints and reducing inflammation. Water also creates resistance and uses core and upper body muscles, which is why deep-water running burns about 40% more calories than land running. So, get into the deep end of the pool (or bay or lake) and hit "play" for a running workout that's perfect for people of all ages and fitness levels.
